ROBERT E. CARR LOSES FOOT

Shot in Foot While Hunting and Amputation Follows Accident

The many, many friends of Robert E. Carr, an exceedingly popular young business man of this city, were shocked when they were informed that he had met with a very serious accident while hunting near Gridley.

Mr. Carr, in company with George R. Carter, Lawrence Carter and H. A. Curnow left this city early Sunday morning for the vicinity of Gridley located in Butte county intending to have a day's sport hunting quail. The forenoon was spent in the field with varing success when they returned to their car and prepared to go to some other section where better sport might be had.

Arriving at their car, Mr. Curnow started to eject the shells from his shot gun as a precautionary measure before entering the car. In some unknown manner the gun was discharged just as Carr in the act of entering the automobile passed in front of him.

The full charge struck Mr. Carr in the leg just above the ankle, badly tearing and lascerating and tearing apart the whole lower part of the limb. He was immediately placed in the car and rushed with all speed to Gridley where first aid was given and then was taken to the Rideout Hospital in Marysville.

Mrs. Robert Carr, the victim's wife, accompanied by Mrs. S. J. Carr, his mother, and Mr. and Mrs. S Lee Leiter, the latter his aunt, upon learning of the accident were taken to Marysville. Ed. C. Hunt, traffic officer, acted as a convoy and a recod run was made to Marysville.

Dr. Carl P. Jones of Grass Valley was also summoned and with doctors from Marysville held a consultation in which it was decided that the injured foot would have to be amputated. This information was given to the assembled relatives and the operation followed, Dr. Jones being the surgeon

The unfortunate young man stood the shock of the operation heroicly and at last accounts was doing as well as could be expected under the circumstances.

Dr. Jack Loutzenheiser who is a relative of the victim was summoned from San Francisco and is in attendance upon the injured man.

The unfortunate accidet is deeply deplored by the people of this city as Mr. Carr's frieds here are everybody who knows him. In fact, he is one of the most popular young men of the city and his progress toward recovery will be anxiously watched by all.

LEGISLATURE TO FAVOR MINING

Measure Designed to Aid Mining in California to be Introduced

At an impromptu meeting of state assemblymen in Sacramento, last week, the matter of rendering aid and encouragement to mining in the state was brought up and thoroughly thrashed over. The main spokesman of the meeting was Edgar C. Levey, member of the state assembly.

"A serious world shortage of gold is threatened," Mr. Levey said. "Engineers have estimated that the gold fields of the Transval in South Africa will be entirely exhausted by 1934.

"In this, our own state of California," he sa,d, "are vast felds of unworked gold-bearing fields, many of them old and well proven mines only awaiting capital to become gold producers again. With our high rate of taxes and high insurance rates this capital is shy of coming in and investing.. If my investigations I have discovered that the heavy premiums for industrial compensation insurance and taxes are the two greatest obetacles in the way of mining development in this state, according to the spaker.

Levey said he favored the proposal of Alden Anderson, Sacramento mining property and to attempt to have the federal government do the same.

LINK TO SERVE HAWAII TRANS-PACIFIC PHONE

Sites for short-wave radio stations for telephone service across the Pacific Ocean have been purchased, and construction is scheduled to begin early in 1931. This is the first step in the move of the Bell System to connect the United States with far eastern countries in or bordering on the Pacific.

Service in Islands by 1932

Service will extend first to Hawaii, and this is planned for operation in 1932. Ultimately this radio telephone service will reach across the Pacific to the countries of the Orient.

The transmitting station is to be located at Dixon, Calif., near Sacramento. A 20-kilowatt transmitter will be installed there which will be similar to those used in the transatlantic telephone service, and will operate on wave lengths between 14 and 44 miters. The antenna will have marked directional characteristics. Other transmitters will be installed as new channels are opened.

Equipment Now Being Built

The receiving station is to be located at Point Reyes, on the coast northwest of San Francisco. Its antennaalso will have directional characteristics.

STRIKE MADE BY INDIAN IS PROVING RICH FIND

The gold strike made several weeks ago in the Grapevine Range, south of Bonnie Claire, by Bob Thompson, Indian prospector, is reported to be developing into an important discovery. A fifty-foot tunnel is said to have exposed a rich vein eighteens inches wide, accompanied by a wide ledge of milling material. The rich shoot is claimed to show specimen ore and considerable free gold.

Reports reaching Tonopah are to the effect that the claims were purchased from the Indian by two Virginia doctors ,who have placed several miners at work. Numerous locations have been staked in the vicinity, and prospectors are commencing to move into the district. For several years Indians have appeared at Beatty, Goldfield and other desert camps with chunks of gold-spangled ore for sale, but have always refused to reveal the source of their fisds It is believed by many Tonopah mining men that the wily redmen secured their gold from secret prospects in the rugged Grapevine country.

The continued weakness of the silver market is causing Tonopah companies and leases much grief. The ney slump of the white metal is costing the Tonopah Extension Company over $1500 this month, and has cut heavily nito profits of leasers. Tonopah ores run about one ounce gold to 100 ounces silver, and this gold ratio is the principal reason why local properties are still producing.

Bradshaw, Inc., has suspended operations at its tailing ponds at Goldfield for the year. Cold weather prevents profitable extraction of values during the Winter months, as it frezes solutions and interferes with delivery of water. The company operated about nine month this year and recovered $295,000 from the immense deposit of tailings below the site of the old Goldfield Consolidated mill. Dividenls amounting to $80,000 were distributed. The company estimates sufficient material in sight to assure at least two more years of steady production.

The Pittsburgh-Goldfield Company is cutting a large station on the 500-foot level of its four-compartment shaft, preparatory to extensive lateral prospecting.

The ground is reported traversed by numerous ledges and cross-veins with indications thought favorable for development of commercial ore. The shaft is situated on the west slope of Preble Mountain, about two miles southeasterly from Goldfield.

WILL DEVELOP MINE IN THE BUCKEYE DISTRICT

. M. Bradford and C. F. Ramsden are developing a group of mines on and in the vicinity of Ramsden in the Buckeye district.

It is stated that there are at least a dozen well defined veins in that territory and much gold both in placer and quartz has been taken out at different times.

If these mines meet with the approval of Messrs. Ramsden and Bradford it is stated that sufficient capital is available for extensive development.

LOCAL BOY MAKES GOOD AS RADIO OPERATOR

William H. Thompson, son of Mrs. Thomas Jennings, arrived in Nevada City Friday and will spend the holidays with relatives and friends here.

He took the tests for radio work while in Portland and passed with a high record of efficiency. The board giving the examination reported that the young man had passed the highest percentage of a large class with the exception of four other applicants for licenses.

Mr. Thompson does not plan to follow the life of the radio operator on the high seas, but is planning to accept a position as technican ashore after a time with a large broadcasting concern.

MERRY CHRISTMAS

TheWhite Christmas which was put on last week by the school children of Nevada City is after all the ideal way to celebrate the birthday of him who was sent to bring joy to the arth. It is indeed excellent training for the children to think of those less fortunate than themselves. In some instances there the children who brought the packages had little enough in their own home but even that little they were willing to share, and felt the richer in doing so.

In all thirty families received gifts from the Community Tree, and Nevada Citians may well enjoy their dinner the more In having cared for every needy family which was called to their attention. Fortunate indeed are those who have chosen this fair city as their home for she gives most generously to anyone in need.

San Juan has her own special Santa Claus in the shape of a little old Chinaman who answers to the name of "Smiley" Christmas morning sees Smiley going from house to house in the village with a bag of candy for the children and for the "missey" a handkerchief or some other trifle. Since "Smiley" gets only a dollar a day when he works, his Christmas giving represents a real sacrifice. But "Smiley" casts his bread upon the waters and when he is ill it comes back to him many fold in the form of hot soups, milk, etc.

And so the Christmas Season is with us a time for joy and giving.

STABILIZATION OF SILVER IS ADVOCATED BY SENATOR PITTMAN OF NEVADA

And now comes Senator Pittman, of Nevada as an ardent recruit to the ranks of advocates of the stabilization of silver and, although his method of procedure does not exactly agree with that advocated by the Nugget, it undoubtedly is a step in the right direction and will lend aid and encouragement to others—for, look ye, the main difficulty in bringing about any movement among the seats of the mighty is the fear they entertain of having the finger of scorn pointed in their direction and having some one say "Sixteen-to-One—Bryanism". But the silver question, like the ghost of Hamlet, absolutely will not down. If William Jennings Bryan was alive today he would be a mightly man and we venture to say would have to be considered in national affairs. Senator Pittman is advocating an international agreement ti abandon the practice of selling silver among governments as a means of stabiling the silver market.

In speaking over the National Broadcasting Company chain, Pittman also urges an international agreement for the purpose of stabalizing the price of silver and the use of silver for monetary purposes.

The Senator as chairman of a senate committee appointed to investigate the depressed condition of silver, soundly criticized the action of the British government for India in substituting paper shin-plasters for silver money and goes on to say:

"The abandonment of the policy of the British government in India will immediately permit silver to go back to its normal price of around 60 cents an ounce. The ultimate stabilization of silver will undoubtedly be above the price of 60 cents an ounce," he said.

"When the dumping of silver has ceased the United States, Great Britain, France, Japan and other countries enjoying great cimmercial benefits in China may lend to the national government of China financial and expert aid for the pacification of China and the revivication of that great country. All China needs is friendly co-operation and financial aid.

"If a silver fund could be provided by interested governments for use in China, to be advanced as and when needed for purposes to be approved by a commission of the powers participating in such advance, war in China would cease and the soldiers who are fighting in armies for food would engage in peaceful occupations for the national government.

"If such results were consummated, we are advised by witness who should know that te commerce of China would increase ten-fold in a few weeks time. This is not surprising when we know that China has about one-fourth of the population of the world and a rich territory approximately as large as all of the United States and Mexico combined. It is possessed of a peaceful, industrious and friendly people. It is the next door neighbor of the United States across the Pacific and today we are connected in our commerce by a great Pacific fleet.

"The United States government has in its treasury between 400,000,000 and 500,000,000 standard silver dollars that constitute a dead, frozen asset, earning no interest whatever. This silver has, in the past been used to meet world emergencies, an dit can, under proper conditions and inducements probably be used again as part of a fund for the revivication of China. Such a concerted act, through increasing the purchasing power of China, would not only benefit our own commerce, but would benefit the commerce of Great Britain, France, Japan and other countries as well.

"It is unreasonable to expect the United States to take on this great burden unless Great Britain, France, Belgium, Japan and other interested countries are willing to co-operate at least to the extent of desisting from those acts that have almost annihilated te purchasing power of silver, and which if persisted in, may absolutely destroy it as a basis of credit and an instrument of arade. The major problem, however, is the elimination of the causes that are unnaturally depressing the price of silver, the stabilization of the money of the world, and the restoration of the normal purchasing power of every country."

AIN'T IT HELL?

(Joe M. Swazey.)

I took a walk, the other day
To See what I could see;
The only thing that I can say
Is, that it seemed like Hell to me.

Why, man, the men that's out of jobs
It is pitiful to see;
What this country's coming too
Is far beyond poor me.

You have to have money to live
You cannot live on looks;
The grocerman can't always give;
No wonder there's so many crooks.

What in the dickens you go'na do
An' how're yo' go'in to subside?
Gosh! No wonder a feller get's th' blues
Yo' can't get work if yo' tried.

Nothin' to do but sit and talk
To try and pass the day.
A little nap—a little walk
To wile the hours away.

Lonely hours of sorrow
That joking cannot quell,
No work the coming 'morrow—

The Extra Christmas Plate

By ROBERT J. C. STEAD

ON THE fourth Christmas in succession Nellie Martin set an extra plate. On past Christmases her husband and the two boys had pretended not to have noticed it. But this year Fred Martin, walking into the big dining room just as his wife was adding the finishing touches to her Christmas table, stopped when his eye fell on the extra plate.

"I think you shouldn't set it, Nellie," he said, gently. "It only reminds us of—things we would be better to forget."

Mrs. Martin brushed a capable, floury hand quickly across her eyes. Things would go blurry when she thought of Lucy.

"Let me leave it just once more," she almost pleaded. "It is more than four years now since Lucy went, and every day I am hoping for her back. Particularly at Christmas I like to think that her place is set and waiting for her. Oh, Fred, if we could let her know."

Fred's hand found hers, where it had rested a moment against the table for support. "I know," he said huskily. "I was wrong in turning her out as I did. I thought the honor of the family demanded it. I thought perhaps she would write; that is, if she is still . . ."

He left the sentence unfinished. Death might not have been unwelcome to Lucy, and four years of silence left them to draw their own conclusions.

"Lucy is too proud to write," his wife asserted. "And yet, I have always felt that sometime she would come back. Perhaps at Christmas.

That is the time of year when one just can't help thinking of home."

"If that Blake boy had been any good," Fred lamented. "She was just throwing herself away on him. That is why I gave her the choice of giving him up or getting out. I wanted to save her. And she got out."

"I know," his wife agreed. "You meant it for the best. Arthur Blake was said to be wild and useless, but the Blake's are a good family, and I've often noticed that boys of a good family generally straighten up again, even if they do go a little wild for a while. You know, Fred, when I married you there were people who said you were, well, just a little—"

"But I got a wife like you," her husband answered. "That makes all the difference."

"Yes, and Arthur got a wife like Lucy—if he married her," Nellie Martin insisted. "Let me leave the plate once more. I'm not giving up hope—"

At that moment the boys were heard coming in by the kitchen door. There were muffled voices, and a sound as though they were helping some one.

George, the elder, appeared in the dining room door, and his face summoned his mother.

"Some one here to see you, Mom," he said, in an awed voice.

In the kitchen Mrs. Martin found a woman sitting on a chair, her head turned away, her figure enclosed in a frayed cloth coat. Soberly she crossed the kitchen floor and turned the head to her eyes.

"Lucy!" she cried. "Lucy—"

The girl made as though she would speak, but seemed overcome. Her mother dropped to her knees beside her, chafing her hands, speaking words of endearment, crying for Fred and the boys.

"We found her in the snow, just between the barn and the house," the boys explained. "She seemed to have fallen there."

But right then Lucy seemed to come to life. She sprang to her feet.

"Mother—Dad—I can't keep it from you any longer. Please help me off with my coat."

Willing hands drew it from her shoulders. "Why, Lucy!" her mother exclaimed, "you are well dressed."

"Well enough, mother. You see, Arthur wanted to be sure how you would receive your erring daughter before he would agree to come in."

"Arthur!"

"Yes. He is in the cutter with little Nellie, just beyond the wind-break. Boys, will you run and tell him?"

The boys dashed off, but Fred Martin seemed the most excited of all. "Two extra plates, Mother!" he shouted. "Two extra plates—and a high chair!"

GOLD MINES OF WALES TO BE REOPENED SOON

DOLGELLY, (Wales)—"Grizzled miners, fresh from the creeks' literally heaped testimony before Professor Henry Louis who is conducting an investigation of abandoned Welsh goldfields preparatory to submitting a report to the government.

Should the report be favorable, Welsh gold mining for almost a generation abandoned, will blossom once again.

Heaped on a huge table in front of Professor Louis were gold, all taken from the Welsh veins.

When the hearing ended, Proffessor Louis made a personal inspection of the old-time mines accompanied by experts who made an estimate of the amount of capital necessary to revive the industry and open up the old, abandoned workings.

One of the most pictueresque of the old-time miners to testify was Ellis Jones, who attributed the falling off of gold production to pior mining methods.

"'Three fellows and myself," Mr. Jones told Professor Lewis, "went into a shaft near here in the dead of winter and by heating water, a little at a time, we panned enough gold out of the vein in a week to realize over $800. Once, using what were then up-to-date operations, $35,000 in gold was taken from three tons of ore."

As a result of the disclosures, that country is seething with the gold fever, but no one in Wales has money enough with which to erect a modern mill where the ore could be profitably and properly handled. However, several firms have announced their intention of forming a syndicate if the government investigations prove the venture as feasible.

Welsh gold mines formerly built up fortunes for their operators and gave employment to hundreds of workers.

BORAH PROPOSES WORLD PACT ON SILVER MONEY

WASHINGTON, D. C. Dec. 15.—The government's financial experts are now busy studying the proposal made by Senator Borah, Republican, of Idaho for the calling of an international economic conference to fix a permanent ratio between gold and silver.

Borah suggested such a conference as a means of establishing and restoring the purchasing power of all nations, whose money is established on a silver basis.

Although Senator Borah has been studying the silver question for some time, he was incidentally spurred into making this suggestion by an American friend in China who wrote that France and England had wrecked the buying power of China by litterly pouring demonetized silver into that country.

Borah said: "No progress can be made toward restoring China to a sound ecinomic basis except thriugh an international agreement and fixing a permanent ratio between gold and sliver.

Borah's fried wrote that the Chinese are nit accepting the gold standard because of their traditions and usages."

ROAD NEWS FOR THE TOURIST AND TRAVELER

Uniform Law Plan

Motorists throughout thePa cific Coast States have received with keen interest the announcement of two meetings to be held this coming week in San Francisco to consider the possibility of uniform vehicle laws for the entire Pacific Coast region. This mov ehas been prompted by the existence of numerous variations between the laws of the different states regulating the ownership and operation of motor vehicles. So many variations in the laws of adjoining states, all different, have resultel in confusion and inconvenience throughout the entire region. The move has been promptd by th numrous variations between the laws of the different states regulating the ownrship and operation of motor vehicles. These have resulted in confusion to both residents as well as tourists.

The conferences will be held next Friday and Saturday and have been called by Percy E. Towne, chairman of Motor Vehicle Conference of California at the instance of the executive committee of that organization and of various officials in California and other costal states.

Taking part in the discussion will be state government representatives from Washington, Oregon, California Nevada and Arizona, including highway commission officials, authorities dealing with the registration of motor vehicles, and officers of the California State Automobile Association and Clubs of Southern California.

Conflicts in rules of the road and other motor vehicle regulartions all of which involve difficulties for the motorist passing from one state into another will be reviewed at the conference. An effort will be made to have those present agree upon a plan of action for corrcting this degree of lack of uniformity. Legislatures of the various states are to convene within a few weeks and it is considered probable that some of the necessary amendments will be presented during the coming sessions.

Replace Worn Brake Bands

When brake drums have been worn thin it is advisable to replace them when relining the brakes, rather than to attempt to true thm by unedrcutting, according to the Free Emergency Road Service of the California State Automobile Association. A thin dru mwill partially collapse when presure is applied, causing squeaky brakes and reducing efficiency.

Dry Grass Causes Scratches

The windshield wiper should never be turned when the glass is dry and dirty. The presence of grit on the wind shield will scratch the glass and cause confusion of reflections when drivin gat night.

GET AUTO LICENSES NOW

Thousands of motor car owners are heeding the wisdom of applying early for their new 1931 license plates, according to reports from the various offices of the California State Automobile Association and the Division of Motor Vehicles. The period for renewel of registration embraces only a few weeks, ending at midnight on January 15. Wise motorists, it is pointed out, are those who apply now and avoid the inconvenience and delay f the usual "last minute" rush.

Prompt service is available now, in contrast with the long waiting in line that will be experienced by those who neglect to apply until the closing days of the registration period.

Caution in Cranking Engine

It is wise before attempting to start an engine with a crank, to make sure there is enough clearance for the hand. Where accessories have been installed it sometimes happens that there is not enough space left for the hand in swinging the crank.

The Automobile Association is issuing plates to members at thirty-trhee offices in cities throughtout Northern and Central California. The Division of Motor Vehicles is handling applications and distributing plates at Sacramento, San Francisco, Oakland, and Fresno. Mail applications are received by the Division at the Sacramento office.

Registration procedure is simple requiring only the presentation of the 1930 white slip certificate and the $3 fe, or he pink certificate of ownership and $3.5 if the white slip is lost.

Check Shock Absorber

The shock absorber anchorage should not be overlooked when checking the car for loose nuts and other connections. Those units often cause an annoying rattle if permitted to become loose.

IN THE DAYS OF OLD

"A HAPPY RIDE"

(Contributed)

One of the many peculiar ways in which the course of true love can run, was illustrated in Nevada City in 1867. In this case a man saved $2,000 and gained a wife. This certain young man had spent quite a bit of his time with a certain young maiden and they were nearing a matrimonial entanglement, when the bridge-groom-to be, disappeared. The deserted maiden was a girl of spirit and she immediately started suit for breach of promise to marry. The result of the trial was that he was found guilty and she received a verdict of $2,000 damages.

Naturally, in a small place there is always plenty of gossip and this affair was soon the talk of our small town. The Nevada City Bachelors' Club held a meeting in order to discuss the situation and to protect other unfortunate men who might fall into the deep pit in which their club brother had fallen. It was also decided at this meeting that all members who were accustomed to calling upon marriageable ladies, should supply themselves with a recipt book, and have a release signed at the trmination of each visit, stating that no matrimonial engagement had been entered into and that all was square to date.

Now comes the romantic termination which occurred between a young and passionate youth and a lonely, fair maiden. About three months after the aforementioned evnts happned, a heavily laden stage was on its way from Nevada City to Grass Valley, when it was met by a gentleman in a buggy who offered to take one of the passengers. The innocent driver asked one of the ladies if she desired to transfer where there would be more room, and the young lady accepted.

As you have read the preceeding you can imagine who this gentleman was. He was her lover that had deserted her in the past; but he had found that he couldn't live without her in spite of his wealth.

What they said during the ride to Nevada City was never known; it can easily be imagined. When the two love birds arrived in Nevada City they went straight to the judge—Judge Peardon, who had presided at the trial, and were quietly married. It was a very happy day—he gained $2,000 and also his beloved back again.

Just how it happened that the young man was passing the stage at exactly the right time, is not explained, and this incident occurred in Nevada City in the year of 1867-8. At that time the town was much larger than it is at the present time. In the early days Nevada City was the largest city in Nevada county and it was also the most popularly known for the wonderful site for hydraulic mining. Our town was chosen to be the county seat, which it is at the present time. Tho' still retaining its reputation as the chief city, it had to give way to Grass Valley in the matter of size in population.

In the year of 1867-8 the census of Nevada County was as follows: Nevada City, 4,140; Grass Valley, 3,940! Bridgeport, 2,100; Rough and Ready, 1,782; Bloomfield, 784.

The state census, taken in 1842, within two years after the organization of the state, was: White males, 12,448; White females, 920; Negroes, 103; Foreigners, males, 721; Foreign, females, 61; Indians 3,226; Chinese, 3,886. Total population in 1852 in California, 21,365.

The first time the eye of a white man ever rested on the site of Nevada City was in 1848, when James Marshall and a party of imigrants camped on the banks of Deer Creek and mined gold.
